AN UNJUST MARRIAGE EDICT .- An Old World correspondent in a recent letter stated that Mr. Bancroft, our Minister to Germany, improved the occasion of his recent presence at Stattgart to remonstrate against a clause in the Wurtemberg statute relating to matrimonial licenses. It appears that in or about the year 1806, the then Crown Prince of Wurtemberg, afterwards King William, tell desperately in love with a young lady in Stuttgart and eloped with her, for the purpose, as was supposed by his royal father, of espousing her. The exasperated king, wishing to prevent such a mesalliance, was not scrupulous as to the means. He caused an order to be published, and had it ante dated for fear that the Prince might have aiready consummated the imprudent act, which declared null and void the marriages of all Wurtembergers abroad who had not previously obtained his royal license. This barbarous law has not only remained ever since on the Wurtemberg statute book, but is really enforced up to this day, and has worked serious injury in a number of cases.

In a late instance a lady-a native of the Wurtemberg district of Bietigheim, who had emigrated to the United States when a girl, of Wurtemburg, and with her family of three children had returned to Stuttgart-experienced the following treatment : Having lived at Stuttgart with her husband for some time he ded suddenly, and then the widow was told that her marriage contract was illegal, her chillen illegitimate and not entitled to their father's name. The eldest boy, ten years of age, was called a bastard by the schoolmaster, and upon his mother's application to a lawyer in order to sue for damages she was told that according to Wurtemberg law she was but a concubine, her children illegitimate, and that the only means of removing the stigma was to obtain a royal pardon and license for her marriage contracted fifteen years previously in America. This demand, however, appeared preposterous to the honest and resolute widow, who, spurning royal elemency, turned her back forever upon Wurtemburg. Other cases of still more glaring mischief under this law are re-

ANECDOTE OF GEN. EARLY. -Col. H. K. D. of Stonewall Jackson's staff, sends an ancedote of "old Jubal" from Hagerstown, Md:

In January' 65. I left the army about Petersburg, on a short furlough, for the purpose of standing beside several of my fellow officers, who were bent on marriage in spite of the disjointed times. In my trip I visited Staunton, the headquarters of "old Jubal," and the remmant of the gallant little army of the Valley. The day after my arrival being a bright Sabbath morning, General Early surprised his staff by announcing his intention of going to church, requesting their company. It was a only for novel suggestion on the part of the commanding General, and chiefly for that reason, I fear, met with a ready assent.

The sermon was a good one, earnest and impressive-the General and staffdevout listeners. Towards its conclusion, where the exhortation usually comes in, the clergyman closed his book emphatically, and with emphasis, exclaimed:

"Suppose, my Christian friends, that those who have lain for centuries in their graves should arise now, come forth from their quiet resting places, and marching in their white shrouds, should pass before this congregation, by thousands and ten of thousands, what would be the result?"

"Ah!" exclaimed old Jubal, in a stage whisper, "I'd conscript every d-d one of them." It was an unfortunate suggestion on the part band, and he would willingly, for reinforce-ments, as General Grant said, "have robbed both the cradle and the grave." And such is our natural depravity, that I have forgotten the text of that day, and all of the sermon, except what was pinned to my memory by that irreverent mot of old Jubal.

CHRIST'S QUOTATIONS FROM THE OLD TES-TAMENT. - Our Lord makes quotations from, or direct reference to, passages in twenty-two out of thirty-nine books of the Old Testament, viz: Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Deuteronomy, 1 Samuel, 1 and 2 Kings, 1 and 2 Chronicles, Psalms, Proverbs, Isaiah, Ezekiel, Daniel, Hosea, Joel, Jonah, Micha, Zephania, Sachariah, Malachi. In Mathe v he quotes nearly one hundred passages from nineteen books; in Mark, fifteen passages from thirteen books, in John, eleven passages in six books. If we make such comparisons, we may say that Deuteronomy and Isalah were his favorite books. In Mathew alene are eighteen references to Deuteronomy, and three in the other Gospels. To Isaiah there are twenty in all. To the Psalms there are sixteen, to Daniel fourteen, to Exodus ourteen, to Leviticus thirteen. - In the eightynine chapters of the four Gospels are one hunared and forty direct allusions to specific passages of the Jewish Scriptures. Our Lord never makes a single quotation from the Apoc-Typhal books, nor can we gather that he ever fead them. It is remarkable that his quota tions are much more literally from the Septuagint than those of the Evangelist, when they quote for themselves, or of the Apostles, as lound in the Acts and Epistles.—Watchman

THREE HARD WORDS. - A very learned man has said: "The three hardest words in the English language are, 'I was mistaken!' rederick the Great wrote to the Senate, "I have just lost a great battle, and it was entirey my own fault." Goldsmith says, "This confession displayed more greatness than all his victories."

Perticoats.—There is a new fashion of petticoats, made with a succession of plaits folded over one another, and commencing at the waist exactly in the manner kilts, are arranged.-They are made either of tartan or of a simple white woollen material, and require neither CAROLINA RICE, for sale by BROOKES & cagen or crinoline to be worn beneath them. | sep 4

THE GREAT DIAMOND HEATER.

This magnificent Stove stands in the same relation to other stoves as the precious jewel from which it derives its name does to other jewels. Profiting by past experience, we have thrown into it all the commendable qualities of the most popular Stoves, and have added inventions of our own, rendering it the best combination of philosophy and mechanics now in the market, and making it a perfect stove. By the arrangement the combustion of gasses is perfect, and greater efficiency is obtained to perform what we claim for it, with a great diminution in amount of fuel necessary. It is unequalled in every particular, in beauty, in workmanship, in durability, and as a home necessity is peerless. It is a self-feeder, and not likely to get out of order. We earnestly invite comparison of this stove with others, and feel confident its great superiority will insure the preference. Weakness of the Back and Limbs, Pains in the Head, Dimness of Sight, Loss of Muscular Power, Palpitation of the Heart, Dyspepsia, Net-vous Irritability, Derangement of the Digestive Functions, General Dubility, Symptoms of Consumption, &c.

MENTALLY.—The fearful effects on the mind are much to be dreaded. Loss of Memory, Confusion of Ideas, Depression of Spirits, hyd Ferebodings, Averson to Society, Self Distrust, Love of Solitude, Timidity, &c., are some of the evils produced:

Thousands of persons of all ages can now judge what is the cause of their declining health, losing their vigor, becoming weak, pale, nervous and emaciated, having a singular appearance about the eyes, Cough, and Symptoms of Consumption.

YOUNG MEN,

Who have injured themselves by a contain practice, indulged in, a habit frequently learned from evil companions, or at school, the effects of which are nightly felt, even when asleep, and, if not cared, renders marriage impossible, and dustroys both mind and body, should apply immediately. What a pity that a young man, the hope of his country, the pride of his parents, should be snatched from all prespects and enjoyments of life by the consequence of deviating from the path of nature, and indulging in a certain se-cret habit. Such persons must, before contem-

MARRIAGE, reflect that a soundmind and body are the racet necessary requisites to promote connubial hap-piness. Indeed, without these the journey through life becomes a weary pilgrimage; the prospect hourly darkens to the view, the mind becomes shadowed with despair and filled with the melancholy reflection that the happiness of another becomes blighted with your own.

DISEASES OF IMPRUDENCE. When the misguided and imprudent votary of pleasure finds that he has imbibed the seeds of this painful disease it too often happens that an ill-timed sense of shame or dread of discovery deters him from applying to those, who from education and respectability, can alone befriend him, delaying till the constitutional symptoms of this horrid disease make their ap pearance, such as ulcerated sore throat, diseased nose, necturnal pains in the head and limbs. nose, necturnal pains in the head and limbs, dinness of sight, deafness, nodes on the shin bones and arms, blotches on the head, face and extremities, progressing with frightful rapidity till at last the palate of the mouth or the fones of the nose fall in, and the victim of this awful disease becomes a horrid object of commisseration, till death puts a period to his dreadful sufferings, by sending him to "that Undiscovered Country from whence no traveller returns."

It is a MELANCHOLY FACT that thou sands fall victims to this terrible disease, ewing sands fall victims to this terrible disease, owing to the unskillulness of ignorant pretenders, who, by the use of that DEADLY POISON, MV K-

CURY, ruin the constitution and make the residue of life miserable. DR. JOHNSON,
